Clarion expands costs and litigation funding team

Leeds law firm Clarion has appointed Stephanie Kaye as a law costs draftsman in its costs and litigation funding team.

Stephanie joins Clarion from wealth management group Pearson Jones where she was an assistant in the tax and trusts division.

The appointment is part of Clarion's on-going expansion of the firm's costs and litigation funding team which has gained a reputation as one of the best in the region. From two members in 2008, the team has grown to six.

Andrew McAulay, manager of costs and litigation funding at Clarion, said: "The team operates in quite a niche area, dealing with all areas of legal costs and acting for receiving and paying parties. We are seeing a marked growth in demand for our services and Stephanie's appointment reflects this increase in business - as a law costs draftsman she will be a valuable addition to the team and will complement our existing skill base."

Stephanie commented: "Clarion's costs and litigation funding department is well known as one of the best in Yorkshire and I am really looking forward to joining such a dynamic and forward thinking practice."

media relations and profile

Clarion's costs and litigation funding team specialises in high-value claims for court costs, costs budgeting, court of protection costs and solicitor/own client costs disputes.
