Deloitte Strengthens Yorkshire Team with Six New Directors

Deloitte is continuing to build its Yorkshire team with the appointment of six directors at its expanding Leeds office.

The business advisory firm has made the appointments in response to sustained demand across its service lines. The promotions comprise three appointments within corporate finance with Kristian Shuttleworth of reorganisation services; Keith Williams of corporate finance advisory and Matt Brewer of forensic and dispute services; as well as two in tax with Steve Blacker, a specialist in research & development tax and Kate Hayes who advises businesses about corporate tax matters; plus Mark Finch of real estate advisory division Drivers Jonas Deloitte.

“These latest appointments enable us to continue to build on our expertise, particularly in tax and corporate finance, where we are seeing increased demand for our specialist advisory services,” said senior partner Geoff Taylor.

He added: “It is vital that we continue to develop the very best people in the markets in which we operate as economic conditions remain challenging.”
