

Date: 30/05/2012

Relocation strengthens Begbies Traynor Group in Leeds

Begbies Traynor Group is bringing together its Leeds teams under one roof with plans for 22 staff from its offices in Glendevon House on Coal Road to relocate to its city centre base in Bond Court in June 2012.

Under the leadership of regional managing partner Julian Pitts, senior partner David Wilson and office managing partner Bob Maxwell, the combined operation will continue to offer a full range of professional services including insolvency and corporate recovery, restructuring, investigations and risk, and pensions.

The move will boost the Bond Court office to 56 staff and bring all of the firm's teams in the city together under one roof for the first time.

"Our various teams work hand in glove across numerous offices in Yorkshire, but this is the first time we will be able to enjoy the efficiencies of working from one Leeds office. One of our strengths is the broad experience and range of complementary services we offer, and being based in the same space is going to further add to these benefits," explained Julian Pitts.

David Wilson added: "By having our 56-strong Leeds teams together in the same building, we will be able to combine the strengths of both offices – our Bond Court office has traditionally handled bank-driven insolvency and restructuring work while Glendevon House has been advisory-led. The move makes perfect sense and allows us to operate from a more efficient cost base.

media relations and profile

“By bringing together the skills sets of both, we will be able to use the breadth and depth of expertise to provide a more efficient, seamless service to clients,” he concluded.

Following the move, Begbies Traynor Group will have eight offices in Yorkshire and the North East employing a total of 106 staff.

<ends>

Shot 1

Picture shows L to R: Julian Pitts, Bob Maxwell and David Wilson of Begbies Traynor

Shot 7

Picture shows L to R: Bob Maxwell, David Wilson and Julian Pitts of Begbies Traynor