Grant Thornton strengthens not for profit team

Business adviser Grant Thornton has expanded its not for profit team in the North with the appointment of Phyllis Odonkor as an audit manager based in Sheffield.

Phyllis joins from the firm’s Milton Keynes office where she spent ten years, the latter seven working in the audit team, focussing on the not for profit sector.

Phyllis has extensive experience of providing audit and assurance services for charities, educational institutions (colleges and universities), and housing associations. She has developed specialist knowledge of the housing sector and is looking to develop this area in the future.

"With her expertise and strong track record in the housing sector, Phyllis will be a real boost to the Sheffield not for profit team,” comments Graham Nunns, head of not for profit sector at Grant Thornton in Yorkshire. “We are continuing to grow the team as demand continues amid challenging times for the sector.”
Phyllis adds: “This is a great opportunity to use my specialist housing knowledge to further strengthen the team’s reputation in the not for profit sector.”
